6th Meeting on Game Theory and Practice Dedicated to Development, Natural Resources and the Environment

Description

Following the first four biannual meetings on Game Theory Practice in Genoa (Italy, 1998), Valencia (Spain, 2000), Hilvarenbeek (The Netherlands, 2002) and Elche, (Spain, 2004), that were general in nature, and another meeting focusing on Game Practice and the Environment, that was held in Alessandria (Italy, 2002), the sixth meeting on Game Theory Practice (GTP) will focus on development, natural resources and the environment.

The purpose of the meeting is to demonstrate the usefulness of GT in these fields, as externalities among users and conflicts over allocation of basic natural resources such as land, water, and other resources are more frequent. Applications of GT techniques and methods to issues in water resource management (including transboundary water), fisheries, forestry, land management, global warming, pollution, migration (domestic and cross border), and alike, will be presented.

A couple of scholarly reputable journals have been considering special issues, as well as a publisher who considers an edited book.

Organizing Committee: Fioravante Patrone (University of Genova), Ariel Dinar (Johns Hopkins University), José Albiac (Centro de Investigación y Tecnología Agroalimentaria), Joaquin Sanchez-Soriano (Universidad Miguel Hernández de Elche), Rashid Sumaila (University of British Columbia), Dunixi Gabiña (Mediterranean Agronomic Institute of Zaragoza / CIHEAM)
