A.

Basic use of symbols

The CIHEAM Zaragoza brand is made up of a symbol, a logo and corporate colours. To avoid unwanted results when using the brand, it is recommended to follow the generic guidelines recommended in this manual.

A1 Corporate logo

The logo is the brand identifier commonly used in all applications. The CIHEAM logo is made up of the CIHEAM symbol and acronym and may also include the full name in English or French.

The logo of the Institutes is made up of the CIHEAM symbol and acronym accompanied by the geographical location, in this case Zaragoza.

The logo of the CIHEAM and the Institutes have three versions: blue (main logo), white and black.

4

The horizontal logo may be used for a better fit on the support used or to adjust to other logos if required.

The CIHEAM symbol may be used without the acronym as a graphic element of corporate identity. The olive tree may also be used without the rest of the logo for the same purpose.

A2 Logo size and spacing

To make sure that the logo is placed in an optimum position and is displayed clearly on all surfaces and in all formats, a minimum exclusion zone (equivalent to the letter C in CIHEAM) should be left between the texts and graphic elements.

6

The minimum reproduction size of the logo is 20 mm wide for the vertical logo and 38 mm for the horizontal logo.

A3 Corporate colours

The colour palette defined for CIHEAM Zaragoza is specified as follows.

Brand use guidelines

In order not to weaken the visual message of the brand, it is essential to avoid any counterproductive effects. A disorderly use of the visual identity creates confusion and has a negative repercussion on the brand's profile and on the public's perception of the corporate values and services. If the logo is placed in the right order and used correctly this will guarantee that the hierarchy within the whole corporate image will be conveyed appropriately.

B1 Correct and incorrect use

Use of the logo on a coloured background

Whenever possible, use the blue logo. If the background colour does not provide enough contrast, use the white version.

Use of the logo in images

The logo can be used in images (photographs or textures) whenever there is enough contrast and provided that the complexity of the image does not make the logo illegible or distort the message or the composition.

If the image is complex or there is not enough contrast the logo can be used on a colour background with up to 20 % transparency.

16

The logo has measures and relative proportions determined by the composition, hierarchy and functionality criteria. Changes in colours or proportions should not be made under any circumstances.

Incorrect use of colour

Deformed
